Their Education was provided by Their Father's will

CHILDREN are apt to tumble about school sometimes, finding it irksome. They need a firm, parental hand—he who comes when they are very glad of tuition.

"How can I make sure that they will continue their schooling after I am?" he asked his wife when they told him he better put his affairs in order for the last time.

She, poor woman, straightened the verdict the doctor had pronounced, could no longer do it. He found a way. He made a will, the proceeds of one of his Mutual Life policies set aside for the purpose, and naming a trustee to help administer this fund.

You, too, are anxious over the education of your children, whatever may happen. Let our agent explain the benefits of the Mutual Life Educational Endowment Policy, specially designed for this important purpose. Write this office "The Mutual Book".

THE PIG CROP

In planning the number of sows to breed, or in other words, the pig crop, farmers are now looking ahead a year, as the progeny of the sows bred now will be on the market next fall. It is, therefore, of great importance in the interest of a wise decision, that the situation of the market for the moment of breeding should not be allowed to take a place in the factors considered. After all, what has to be taken into consideration is, what are the conditions likely to be next fall, and present conditions should only be considered to the extent that they indicate the future.

Undoubtedly the biggest single factor in the price of hog products on the world's markets is production in the United States. The hog population in the United States on January 1, 1921, is given as 66,997,000, in 1923 as 68,427,000, and in 1924 as 65,500,000. The pig survey of June, 1924, indicated that there would be a decrease of about 1,000,000. The United States has an immense consuming population, but, of course, like every other country, exports her surplus, which in 1923 amounted to 1,734,000 lbs. of pork products. The comparatively high American farmer put his hogs on the market during the last few weeks in unprecedented numbers, the receipts on the Chicago market for the day, December 15, being about 122,000 hogs. The first two weeks of December saw the biggest deliveries in the history of the United States. Too big a percentage of these hogs are light and unmarketable, which means the farmer is liquidating his hogs. The effect is to decrease the total pounds of pork produced. During the first nine months of this year 372,000 more hogs were marketed in the United States, but about 11,400,000 more pounds of pork was produced than in the same period last year. Undoubtedly these conditions will have a big effect on the number of sows that will be bred this fall for next year's market. Denmark and Ireland are also feeling the pressure of comparatively high priced feeds.

This situation is of immense interest and importance to Canadian farmers and packers. After carefully reviewing the whole situation, Canadian packers feel that next year is going to be a "hog year". That is, they believe if producers will produce the quality and furnish to the packing houses their normal quota of hogs, properly managed hog production will be profitable to farmers. If farmers and packers pull together they should be able to make another considerable step in establishing our Canadian pack on the British market. Last year saw very low prices for grain and big hog production; this year a sudden jump in grain prices and consequent prospective reduction in breeding operations in the United States; high cost of production in countries like Ireland and Denmark; that have to import a considerable proportion of their feeds; and a slackening of breeding in Western Canada. Packers strongly believe that this situation is one which should induce hog producers in Canada to breed a full number of sows and that an increase in production is perhaps a safer policy than it was last year when everybody was feeding cheap grain. Probably sows kept as breeders never were better kept.

BABY'S COLDS

Children's delicate digestions are easily disturbed by too much "dosing". Still, the little ones' cold troubles cannot be neglected.

At the very first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vicks VapoRub over the throat and chest. There is nothing so swallow—you just rub it on. Colds go over night, croup is usually relieved in 15 minutes.

RIDGEWOOD

The annual meeting of the Community Club was held on Friday, Jan. 2, 1925. The attendance was not as good as we would have liked to have seen. However, those present manifested their interest by going into a thorough discussion pertaining to the best method of completing and enlarging the hall. The meeting was unanimous in having the hall finished in the most up-to-date and substantial manner. The hall is to be built on the site of the old hall and will be 20 feet of extension to the front of the hall just as the present hall was. The financial affairs of the hall seem to be very satisfactory, everything so far being clear of debt with a small cash balance on hand. The committee speaks well for those who have done the managing and the people of the community who have given their loyal and generous support to an institution which is the centre of social activities for many miles around. All the members of the old Executive were re-elected for another term with the exception of Mr. Rex Creelman, who wished to retire, and Mr. John Rickley, Jr. who was elected in his stead. The Executive Board of Management consists of: Hon. President, A. M. Kennedy; Hon. Vice-Pres., O. Sigurdson; President, Thos. Sigurdson; Vice-President, D. Martin; Directors: W. Scott, John Rickley, Jr., Miss E. Sigurdson, Miss M. Morrison and W. J. Platt. The secretary-treasurer, the business part of the meeting, the ladies present very kindly served a dainty lunch.

Plans are under way to have a card party and dance in the hall on Friday, January 30. There will be an admission fee of 50¢, and ladies bringing sandwiches or cake will be admitted free. The ladies are all the time specially requested to provide lunch, as the management is going to depend on them. We hope the weather will be agreeable, and that a good crowd will turn out.

The annual meeting of our local U.F.A. and the appointment of delegates to the convention was to have been held on Friday, Jan. 2, but owing to the absence of the secretary, all business was deferred. The U.F.A. local at Ridgewood seems a striking example of other local throughout the country: not enough interest being taken to keep the organization fairly alive.

Mr. C. M. Hollenbeck left on Monday with a small crew for the Rocky Mountain House for the winter, where he has taken a contract to saw lumber.

Condor L.O.L. 2943 held its regular meeting Tuesday night, when Bro. O. McKee was advanced to the R.A.P. degree.

Orangemen and ladies from a wide area will converge in Condor on Tuesday, January 20, to meet Rev. Bro. Robt. White, P.G.M., Field Secretary, of Edmonton. Bro. White will address a public meeting on Monday, 19th inst., taking for his subject "Protestant Problems." Arrangements are being made for extra seating facilities in the hall for the public meeting, as it is expected that a very big crowd will turn out to hear this most popular and eloquent speaker from Edmonton.

ECKVILLE U.F.A.

In every way the best meeting held for a long time was given by the Eckville U.F.A. a good number were present. Many and varied discussions took place. The wheat pool was urged in a resolution to arrange as speedily as possible to take over or build their own elevators.

Our representative on the executive of the Live Stock Shipping Association explained the history and the development of the Association to its present position. He made an earnest appeal to the meeting to stick to what has been built up with so much hard work, their own shipping association. He asked whether they would like to see the pioneers in pool shipping go ahead, and leave the rest of their sheep to attempt to divide the farmers. The discussion that followed plainly showed the resentment against the action of the U.F.A., professing themselves a farmers' organization, to try to break up our organization. It was explained that when the U.F.A. can meet the prices at which the association is selling, they certainly can have the product. A strongly worded resolution, condemning the U.F.A. for their action, was put on the minutes, and the meeting pledged itself to stay with our own organization, and the members will tell their neighbors, and urge and explain the matter to them also.

The election of officers was then held and resulted as follows: President—C. Gustavson, re-elected. Secretary—J. E. Lundberg. The seed grain question was discussed at length, and the Secretary is to get all the information on the subject and present the same to the next meeting, which is to be held on January 28. You are all urged to attend this meeting.

SHORT STORY WRITING

A class of boys was asked to attempt to write a short story. The shortest story, and the best, came from the pen of a small boy, who wrote: "One bull, two terrors; one bull, one terror; one bull."

WHERE QUEBEC STANDS FIRST

Rich in Forest Products and Has Over Third of Canada's Water Power. Leads in Production of Maple Products and Used First Cream Separator on the Continent.

One of the remarkable things brought out by the Natural Resources of Quebec, a well-illustrated publication just issued by the Department of the Interior at Ottawa, is the number of features in which the province stands first or excoels. For example, Quebec has seven-eighths of the world's asbestos. The first centrifugal cream separator to be used on this continent was operated in Quebec at the village of Ste. Marie de Beauséjour. Canada's first paper mill was established in St. Andrew's, Quebec, in 1803. Fifty per cent of the capital invested in Canada in the pulp and paper industry is invested in Quebec. It was in Quebec, at the Oka Institute, that the first "frost-resisting" breed of poultry, the Chanteclere, was developed and withstood cold winter weather. More maple products are made in Quebec than in all the other provinces of Canada combined, and the only known workable deposits of kaolin or china clay in Canada are found there. Finally, the province boasts the largest water-power storage reservoir in the world, the Gouin dam on the St. Maurice river, with 100 billion cubic feet capacity.

Of special interest are the chapters on the pulp and paper industry, water powers, and the agricultural and mineral resources, including the new Boya gold fields. The scenic resources and the attractions offered to sportsmen and tourists are treated in detail. The chapter entitled "The Land and the People" is singularly successful in conveying the local atmosphere which imparts to the people and the institutions of the province their quaint attractiveness and peculiar charm.

To business men, investors and citizens generally, "The Natural Resources of Quebec" will prove of very timely interest. Perhaps nowhere else within the covers of a single volume can there be found such a readable and concise description of the principal natural resources of the province as in this booklet of 190 odd pages.

THE "SNOWMOBILE"

Virgil D. White, of New Hampshire, is the inventor of a new appliance for Ford cars and trucks. He put them on snow-shoes—that is, the automobile's mechanical equivalent of snowshoes. Believing that the same principle would apply to cars in places where deep snow otherwise prevented them from being used, he built runners, five feet long, eight inches wide, with a steel surface one-eighth of an inch thick, and replaced the front wheels with them. The axle he extended, attached a heavy wheel to a worm drive, and added a pair of "Pony" wheels as idlers, which a caterpillar tread was placed. This tread gave additional bearing surface and gave power to the runners, as he has christened his creation. The runners in front pack the trail for the rest of the rear and marvellous results have been obtained from the invention.

All sorts of snowy country has been tried out for the machines and they have passed the tests every time. In places with snow from three to ten feet deep they have gone "over the top" with the same ease as they climbed piled snow, ten feet high.

THE "IMPERIALIST" BOGEY

All over Canada a sudden strange apprehension seems to have sprung up about "imperialism." From the time when the late President Wilson issued his rash and ill-considered proclamations about "self-determination," there appears to have been a general agreement to attribute to the word "imperialism" a specialized and sinister meaning for which there is no justification either in British history or in English literature. In spite of the fact that even the enemies of the British Empire admit its beneficent influence in maintaining peace and spreading justice and civilization over the world, in spite of the pride with which the Empire's efforts in the Great War were regarded, the word "imperialism" has been given this new and limited and wholly incorrect meaning of something tyrannous and overbearing, something entirely hostile to the organization of the Empire as it has grown up in recent times. It is as if someone had suddenly decided that because the word is derived from the language of ancient Rome, where it stood for more or less absolute authority, therefore it must still have the meaning of a tyrant and must still be something quite inconsistent with the institutions of free and democratic countries such as Canada.

It is all nonsense, but it is mischievous and dangerous nonsense, for it is an easy and natural transition from the attribution of a bad meaning to the word "imperialism" to the attribution of a bad meaning to the whole idea of an empire, and of the British Empire in particular. Few of those who thus lightly talk about the evils of "imperialism" ever show the smallest sign of having given either thought or study to the real history of the British Empire or any other empire. Few of them seem disposed to ask themselves just what would happen if this Empire and this "imperialism" they profess to be so nervous about, were to be done away with. Men who are quite well enough educated to know better, persistently refuse to face that question, and they are ever compelled to face it, persistently dodge it and try to find a way out of answering it directly. Perhaps it is the result of mere careless repetition in syndicated newspaper articles, written possibly by American journalists with all their complacent ignorance of history or of foreign countries, or even of the pronouncedly "imperialist" character of their own country's policy since the Spanish-American War of 1898-99. Perhaps it is due to such mistakes and misapprehensions, but perhaps it is due to something else than mistakes. It is always possible that be-comedian with a red nose to snuff through another few lines, and then be replaced by a chair singing soulfully "Angels ever bright and fair." Yet that is exactly what the average radio fiend—we use the word with deliberate emphasis—does to the average party of friends whom he deems to be a evening of radio entertainment. It is a strange disease, and in time, no doubt, an antidote will be devised to cure it. In the meantime, we can only suggest trying the host up to the table after he has once tuned in to a station and keeping him tied till the whole programme of that particular station is finished.

WHEN ROGUES FALL OUT.

There are increasing signs of serious dissension within the ranks of the Russian Bolsheviks and of formidable opposition among the peasantry to the communistic theories of the Bolshevik government. The personal quarrel seems to be between Trotsky on the one side, and Lenin on the other. Trotsky in the early stages of Bolshevism was the ruthless driving force and organizer of the Red army against the "White" forces of Admiral Kolchak, Denikin, Wrangel, and others. While Lenin was the theoretician, and apparently the sincere and fanatical theorist of Communism, Trotsky was the bitter and blood-thirsty executioner of the movement. It is not believed that he is enthusiastic about communistic theories. All he is concerned with is the securing of his own unfettered supremacy and that of his friends. For that purpose he made the army his special department, judging rightly that in the Bolshevik as in other revolutions, an obedient army was of considerably more value than the most grandiloquent theories, especially in resisting anything in the nature of monarchal counter-revolutions.

As long as Lenin lived and maintained his position as supreme and unquestioned autocrat of the Red Revolution, so long was dissension in the ranks of his followers kept more or less in a state of suppression. Once he was dead, it was almost inevitable that a struggle would take place for the right to wear his mantle of leadership. That struggle has now reached a stage of almost open enmity, and before long it is at least possible that some of the contending leaders will fall victim to it, exactly as happened in the case of the French Revolution.

Meanwhile the peasants of Russia seem to be gradually gathering what may be the courage of despair or of rage to make a stand against the Communist government, and in face of that increasing opposition it looks as if the government is realizing the necessity of making concessions to the peasants in the direction of allowing to some extent at least a revival of private trading as distinct from public or nationalized industry. After all, probably few of the present Bolshevik government really care much for the theories which have ruined Russia, considered by the theory only.

It is only seven and a half years since the Bolsheviks seized power in Russia. As revolutions go in history that is no long time, and it is not, therefore, very surprising that this phase of political anarchy should have endured so long. If its leaders are really going to fall upon one another, the end of the existing system may not be far off. The world has watched the Bolshevik experiment with interest as well as with horror. What the next stage will be should also be followed with attention. It will probably at least furnish us in Canada with some lessons in what to avoid.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We wonder why the U.G.G. paid 9c for hogs at Sylvan Lake on Monday of last week and only offered 8.40 at Penhold.

$2.00 wheat is just around the corner, says a headline, which will make all farmers anxious to stray from the straight and narrow path.

Now is the time to start work for the new rink for next winter.

SATINWOOD SMILES

Our caption still indicates our opinion irrespective of crops under snow and living near a city that head all Canada with a glorious record. Light!

Just before Xmas all heads popped up through the snow wearing the inevitable smile. Smiling faces and cold feet are extremely fashionable at present.

Now that ladies are bobbing their hair, the more men are contemplating letting their hair grow long so as to distinguish the sexes.

Who was the charivari party, or should we say shivering party, that went out and lost their way to the home of our newly married neighbors and returned home disconsolate?

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuart are spending a few days in Calgary.

A valiant gentleman collected the ladies and took them to the home of Mrs. Ellis, where the Club met this week.

A fortnight ago three warriors had decided to take pigs and a cow to Ralph Patterson of Red Deer, who had been shouting "More pigs, boys, more pigs." They started out one bitterly cold morning at 9 a.m., and Ralph got their produce at 7.20 p.m. that evening. That is what is called swift travelling—57½ miles in 10½ hours. The journey was as exciting as sailing among rocks in a bad blow in the tropics, and this writer knows. The driver's face looked as if he had been studying Dante's picture of "Lost Souls in Hades," or something like that.

Spence two (and there were six of them) was when the kindly and handsome driver of that rig that contained the beast that was destined to grace someone's table as roast beef or probably pork sausage, got down to help his suffering comrades. He turned his back, I mean he turned round, and away went his gallant steeds, i.e., they bent it. Soon Spence was gracefully reclining in four feet of snow, and the team was disgracefully running like—oh well, you know. Away went two far-coated gals, contemplating a pleasant walk to Red Deer after the fast receding team. However, luck, whatever that is, was with them, although the team wasn't. About a mile the horses trilled, but could not manage a sharp turn around, and here my harness comrades, found the team floundering in the snow with the sleigh on the top of them and unable to move. A quick movement, and a sheep went of command, etc., and the merry party were returning to the disconsolate one who remained behind. While the first pair were on the war path the other one tunneled under the box and re-emerged "Sphinx" in a few minutes were "all set" again. Grant got in with Johnny and their faces wreathed in smiles. A something-attempted-something-done smile. Away went our gallant cavalcade, but only for twenty yards or so, and then the writer, who was in the rear, smiled a great big smile. First Johnny's arms went up, and then Grant's feet looked as if he were trying to walk on the sky, and once more all were safely ensconced in a beautiful bank of pure clean, sparkling snow. But why worry you with more details? No wonder our respected editor gave me farmers such a swell write-up and called us "the backbone of the line."

Hogs were shipped the same day from Rhymes, which is 4½ miles from home, and two days later from Joffre, which is 3½ miles. Please don't laugh, as this is very serious, and operation is the thing, ain't it, Ralph?

BINGLEY

The storms of December made our roads almost impassable; but during the past two weeks, in spite of cold weather, the roads have been beaten down till the going is fair again.

Most of the men are busy in the woods cutting ties, wood, etc.

At the annual school meeting, Mr. Marry was elected trustee to fill the vacancy of the retiring trustee, Mr. George Stewart. The incident weather lightness lessened the school attendance. Owing to the belated audit of the books and the absence of the financial statement, a deferred special ratemakers' meeting is to be held on the 26th inst.

RIDGEWOOD

The annual meeting of the Ridge-wood Community Church was held in the hall on Friday evening, January 16th. The attendance was very satisfactory, under present road conditions. The meeting opened with Rev. F. McAllister in the chair, and Mr. Donald Martin as secretary. Reports of the work for the year were given by Mrs. Creelman, President of the Ladies' Aid; the Women's Missionary Society, and by Master Creelman for the Sabbath School.

The Board of Management for 1925 are as follows: Mrs. Creelman, Mrs. Silverberg, Mr. W. Scott, Mr. A. Kennedy and Mr. Laekie Bickley. It was unanimously decided to close the church for the month of January and March owing to the condition of the roads and the cold weather. At the close of the meeting, the ladies served lunch.

BRITISH SHIP CAPTURED BY PIRATE GANG ON HIGH SEAS

Hong Kong, January 17.—The British steamer Hong Hwa, which sailed for Singapore three days ago, put back into port here today, with an amazing story of piracy on the high seas. All the steamer's passengers were penniless and the safe had been rifled, yes those aboard were otherwise unharmed.

Officers of the Hong Hwa reported that for three days the vessel had been in the possession of Chinese pirates. The latter embarked with the rest of the passengers without exciting suspicion. When the steamer was a short way out, the pirates gathered, rushed the bridge and overpowered the captain and crew.

Officers Made Prisoners
A volley was fired during the attack on the bridge, but none was hurt. The British officers were for the most part at breakfast, and were surrounded and made prisoners. The first thing the pirates did was to demolish the steamer's wireless. Then they forced the officers to navigate the ship for three days on the high seas, keeping from touch with land or other vessels, while the pirates systematically robbed the passengers. The latter were kept virtually prisoners and forced when their turn came to give up all their valuables.

Took Their Time
The robbers took their time, working for a day at the business of opening the steamer's safe.

Finally, when they possessed all the money on board, they ordered the Hong Hwa to land them with their booty.

SCHOOL BOARDS HELD
LIABLE FOR DAMAGES
FOR DECEIT

School Boards are held liable for damages for deceit when they send notices of acceptance to several teachers in response to applications for the same vacancy with the intention of signing up their first choice and sending regrets to others who accepted.

Such is the judgment on the test case recently tried at Calgary in the Supreme Court, in which Mr. Justice Boyle handed down an award of $300 to Miss B. H. Morrison against the Canal Hill School District, No. 272.
Costs were allowed against the trustees Board, but damage claims against the trustees as individuals were dismissed. Geo. H. Van Allen, Solicitor for the Alberta Teachers' Alliance, was counsel for the trustees. The trial and J. P. Pitch, of Calgary, was counsel for the defendants.

According to the evidence, the trustees advertised for a teacher for the one-room school in February and during March received 24 applications.
At a meeting held April 5, the Secretary was instructed to send letters of acceptance, couched in the usual terms to three teachers who applied.
Three days later Miss Morrison wrote the Canal Hill Board asking that she be accepted and stating that she would be ready for duty on the date mentioned in the letter.

Within a few days, Miss Morrison declined two other offers of positions and then, after declining these acceptances from the other School Boards, Miss Morrison was called to the Canal Hill School Board that they "regretted to cancel the acceptance by the trustees and hoped it would not be inconvenient to her to accept the position."
As a result of the disappointment, the plaintiff could not get another position for that school year.

Suit was made to a test case rather than as an attempt to recover punitive or exemplary damages.

It was argued on behalf of the trustees at the trial that the Board had done exactly the same thing as the teacher had done in replying to several School Boards' advertisements and that it was not the business of the School Board to write to several School Boards when in need of a position as a long established custom and well recognized. He pointed out that the teacher sent out three "acceptances" at the same time and that his action would have been as reprehensible as that of the School Board. She had, he said, declined all other offers and accepted their with the intention of signing the required contract.

Efforts had been made later to falsify the minutes of the School Board meeting to cover up their error in giving accepted three teachers for the one position.

The judge quoted from an earlier judgment of Justice Stuart of the Supreme Court of Appeal, in which the Justice says that the Board took some risk of misjudging teachers in their efforts to secure their first choice, and suggested that decisions and disappointments could be avoided by a more general use of the telegram or long distance telephone.

POULTRY SHOW

Prize List, Banquet and Presentation of Cups

The Red Deer Poultry and Pet Stock Association held their annual banquet at the Commercial Cafe on Wednesday evening, when about twenty sat down to a fine spread put up in the Com-mercial's usual high-class style. Mayor John presented and kept things moving in good style.

Mr. Ross Wallace, of Calgary, who acted as judge at this year's show, paid a splendid tribute to the local Association for the show they put on this year in the face of the trying conditions. He said that while the entry list was not quite as large as last year, the quality of the birds was just as high, if not higher. The birds were in the best of condition and showed great care on the part of the owners. He had never judged at any show where the birds had been better handled, there being only one bird disqualified in the whole show. Mr. Wallace also complimented the Association on the splendid arrangement of the coupes—it was a great improvement over last year. He advised the poultrymen to stay with the brooding of high-class birds as the demand for them was sure to come soon, with improved farm conditions. He was very complimentary to the exhibition of the White Wyandottes, and said the Wyandottes and the Cochins were fit for any show in Canada.

Dr. Collison presented the cup donated by him for the best display of birds, other than white, heavy variety, to Mr. E. Gehrike, and expressed his surprise that the Langshans did not win the cup. The Doctor rules Langshans as the best of the breed.

Miss Cartwright, Calgary, won the Gordon Payne cup for the best display of white birds, heavy variety, and Mrs. Payne presented it to Mr. Wallace, on behalf of Miss Cartwright.

Mr. John presented the cup of the Red Deer Fire Department for the best display of white birds, light variety, to Mr. Ross Wallace, and Mr.
Wallace presented it to Mr. T. A.
Withers for the best display of birds,
other than white, light variety, to Mr.
Payne.

The Advocate cup, for the best display of poultry in any one variety, utility breed, exhibited by farmer variety, in the Red Deer district, to be won two years, not necessarily in succession, went to Mr. J. Richards, Jr., with a fine pen of White Wyandottes, and was presented by Mr. Fred Turnbull. This was Mr. Richards' initial entry in the poultry show.

President Gehrike, Vice-President
Byers and Secretary Thorpe, all cordially thanked the public for the generous support given them in their first year, and regretted the small attendance at the show. Major Lister was thanked for procuring the drill hall for the show, and Secretary Thorpe thanked the members of the club for their efficient services as secretaries.

The drawing for the turkeys then took place. Mr. Chas. Chuck making the draw. The lucky numbers are 67 and 76. Mr. R. Lancaster won with No. 76, and turned the turkey over to the Welfare Board.

A toast to the King brought a pleasant couple of hours to a happy conclusion.

Those present were: Mayor John,
Dr. Collison, Messrs. T. A. Withers,
E. Gehrike, Gordon Payne, C. Huget,
C. Huget Jr., Fred Higginson, Millet,
C. Wilkinson, Edmonstone, Howard Byers,
Thos. Edin, N. M. Burnett, R. C. Lister,
Thos. Stanway, Guy Nelson, J. Richards Jr., Fred Turnbull.

WITH QUIET AND SPUR

By Kathleen M. Archibald.

When Dan Grey noticed the finely formed colt among the bunch of horses that had just come in from the range his first thought was "what a beauty." There the colt stood, with his head high and his nostrils glistening; clean-cut in body and limb, dappled, long-barreled and with flowing mane and tail, he was a perfectly perfect specimen of his kind. "What a color!" he was neither red nor white, but a fearsome combination of the two colors. If he had been a cow, you would have called him a brindie. Two of his legs were white to the knees; his face was white; and to cap the climax he was white-eyed. He would bring little in the market and would have to be kept as a stock pony for the ranch.

By the time Wall-Eyed Jim, as he was named, was eight years old, he was the pet of the establishment. His ugly head would come in through the open window as he begged for a carrot or for a potato. When he galloped up to the yard where children were playing they did not run. He would stand among them like a well-trained animal, and if they wanted to be rid of him all they had to do was throw a chip at him. But they almost always ceased him to stay and be fed and patted.

The morning that Jean Grey was thirteen years old her father called her as he went out to saddle his horse. "This is your birthday, Jean," he said, "but I have not been to town and so have no gewgaws for you. You are a fine big girl now; how would you like it if I were to give you Jim? He is your birthday present. From today on no shall ride him except you, unless of course I lend him."

Jean was delighted. She had always wanted a horse of her own. There would be no more twenty-four riders for Jim, rounding up the stock; now he was all her own, and she would never ride long enough to worry him. With saddle or without, Jean could stay on a horse. The easy lope and the wild break-neck run were alike to her. The only trouble was that Jim had a mind of his own and sometimes thought that he knew more than his mistress. It is true that she had a quiet and a pair of roving spurs. But she would not use the spurs; he might bleed. And what did he care for a quiet in a hand the size of hers?

None of the stock ponies were shod; they travelled winter and summer on bare hoofs. Jim had early learned to hate hard roads. One day baby Tom became suddenly ill while Jean's father was away on a stock run. Her mother called her to the house and she and her mother called her to the house and she and her mother called her to the house.

When Jean came to the fork she tried to pull Jim over to the left, but, ignoring the pull on the rein, he kept on the softer course. Then something happened to him. Both spurs went home until the blood came, the quiet fell and fell again, and the startled pony leaped back on the hard trail and never paused in his wild run until he had reached his destination.

Jean had a good horse and a good bridle but no serviceable saddle of her own; she used the old saddles that the stockman had discarded. She would go to school and to the store and to church on a frayed and tattered seat. How she wanted a new saddle! Her mother only had one, she could go anywhere and not feel ashamed. "What if Jim was of an odd color?" He could run like the wind, and he did not tire easily. She lacked only the saddle to be a properly equipped horsewoman.

Early in August in the year that Jean was fifteen years old the list of prizes to be given at the Saskatoon Fair came in the mail. The whole family warmly attended the fair and rode to it in an old prairie schooner. Though Dan Grey had no race horses, he did love fine stock and enjoyed seeing other people's horses run. There were prizes for the six weeks that things, and as Jean read the list she kept exclaiming to her mother, "O mother, she said, 'I'll give you a horse of my own.'"

"Then a bit later she remarked, 'We ought to win with our pumpkins! And we'll take the best baby—there's a prize for the best baby—a city lot! Think of it! We might build a house off it!'"

In another moment she had forgotten the baby, for there in black and white she read:

Ladies' Race
Open to All Ladies of Northern Saskatchewan Prize

Fine Light Mexican Saddle. She uttered a cry of delight. "I have my saddle at last! I have my saddle! O mother, I will ride round that track on Jim, and they will give it to me."

No warnings that her parents gave could dampen her enthusiasm and confidence, and the six weeks that preceded the fair were very long for the young horsewoman.

In those days the Saskatoon race course was in the centre of the city. Until an hour before the race, when Jean rode Jim across the course and into the green paddock, which half-mile track encircled, the horse had never seen a race track of any sort. The paddock was well fenced, but had two open gates opposite each other; each gate was perhaps an eighth of a mile from the judges' stand. A free-for-all trotting race was about to start as Jean entered; there were two heats to it. While the horses were resting before the final the ladies' race would come. There were three entries.

After the first heat of the free-for-all, the women contestants rode out on the track. Besides Jim and his young rider there were two medium-sized bay geldings ridden by young ladies of the city. The geldings were not in any sense race horses; they had been entered for the fun of the race and to help make the event successful. One of the women riders had a sidesaddle; the other, who rode astride, had full divided skirts. People were greatly astonished to see the "outside" horse, which many persons said was the ugliest they had ever looked at. And on his back was a girl of fifteen with excited, laughing blue eyes. She wore khaki breeches, a blue blouse and a slouch hat. Two paxen braids, tied with a single blue

LESLIEVILLE

The village school held their first annual Christmas tree on Friday evening, January 9. There was a large attendance of both adults and children, the surrounding school districts being well represented. Owing to the kindness of the evening, and the assistance of the janitor, the big hall was very comfortable. The decorations were quite a Christmas air to the proceedings, which were carried through with punctuality and precision that reflected great credit on the teacher, Miss Morrow. Mr. McCallum, as chairman, was in his usual good form, and told the crowd that the only chairman's address he had was the post office. Nevertheless, he managed to punctuate the proceedings with a number of good life stories that were hilariously received. Here in the program: Chorus, "O Canada," by children. Christmas Chimes, by children. Monologue, "The Trials of a Teacher," by children. Recitation, "Maggie and Jiggs" by F. A. Awcock.

Duet, "When You and I Were Young," by M. Case and H. Card. Recitation, "Santa Claus," by Vivian Barnd.

Recitation, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," by children. Drill, by twelve girls.

Dialogue, "The Trials of a Teacher," by children. Song, "Smiling Through," by Margaret.

Recitation, "Troubles in School," by Glen Bailey. Encore.

Recitation, "The Twins," Helen McKinnon.

Duet, by Cliff Awcock and Myra Cartland. Dialogue, "The Trials of a Teacher," by children.

Monologue, "Paper Men," Pat Cummerford.

Chorus by junior pupils. Monologue by Myra Cartland. Encore.

Recitation, "Cat Pin," by teacher and children.

Chorus by senior pupils. Monologue, "Hubbard Hunting," Miss Margaret McKinnon.

Dialogue, "The Trials of a Teacher," by teacher and children.

Chorus, "Hurray for Santa," children. Arrival of Santa and distribution of gifts.

A series of thanks in which Miss Morrow thanked the pupils for the nicely signed card and pretty handbag; the chairman thanked those who had helped make the affair a success, and the audience by acclamation approved of the excellent manner in which the chairman had carried through the program.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the proceedings to a close.

On January 2, Mr. George Cullison had the index finger of his left hand badly gashed with the buzz-saw at Mr. Popper's place, necessitating a trip to the hospital for treatment, which we hope may be instrumental in saving the finger.

The new seat of learning is coming along very nicely, and will be a splendid addition to the town's architectural attractions.

CHARITY AND LOGIC

(By Hy. Frank Lawrence, Red Deer, in Toronto Saturday Night.)

If an intelligently directed philanthropy could in any way become comparable with the extent number of churches scattered throughout this country then what a vastly improved state of society we should be living in.

My thoughts were diverted to this subject recently through the reading of an old soldier, 70 years of age, to jail.

He was destitute and begging his bread, a fine solitary looking old fellow in spite of his years; and had done long service in the 6th Royal Irish (Lancers), of whom it is superfluous to add there is no finer light cavalry regiment in our blessed old Empire, nor one that has seen more service in every corner of the globe.

"Don't send me to prison, Sir—I will do any work within my strength." I had no reason whatever to doubt his word, but he is now herded with criminals in Port Saskatchewan—filling his prison belly with prison fare.

He had been sentenced to a term of years for a crime which he had committed in his youth, and he was now in a police court within the Western provinces that will not give testimony to his occurrence. It should be impossible for such an outrage to occur in a land boasting of its rough plenty and its abundance of food.

Life is like that. You can't afford to play fast and loose with golden opportunity. You must "shoot" to score. Ability to score is not enough. You must score—and one up with the game.

You men especially should be ready for the golden chance, the happy moment, if that great opportunity should slip by it may never come again. The chances are it won't. Opportunism is a virtue when the cause is good. Go in and win.

A PLAIN TALK

The forward who does not "shoot" when he has only the goalkeeper to beat gets left out of the team. He is not a goal-keeper—so he is dropped.

There was a ship on a sandy bar the other day. It is that bar still, and likely to remain there till "a whooping billow" sweeps it to destruction, and it becomes a low island out in the Armoueries.

Mr. Porter has kindly consented to act for the treasurer to receive fees, names, etc., at Porter's Pharmacy, because of the convenient location of the store.

To those who are not familiar with the game of Badminton, it might be said that it is very simple as regards rules, and is an excellent training for the co-ordination of eye and body, as well as providing one of the most delightful forms of sport.

LOST OR FOUND?

John Stone was one of those estimable people who are kind enough to bring to our houses every day at 6 a.m. and at noon a supply of milk. John also had to milk the cows in the evening, and it was his custom to seek relief from these arduous labours in the local public-house, where he could drink as much as he conveniently could.

This evening he had followed his usual practice, leaving his horse and cart outside. But one of his milk pails the pony out of the cart and led it away. Presently John came out in rather a muddled state. He was most amazed when he saw the cart without the horse.

"Am I John Stone," he muttered, or am I not? If I am John Stone I've lost a horse, if I am not John Stone I've found a cart."

HIS LUCKY NIGHT

Rastus was sporting proudly a new shirt, when a friend asked: "How do you like to slip by it for a shirt like that?"

Rastus replied: "I got three shirts like this out of one yard last night."

Here and There

That Hollanders who have located in Alberta are making good and are satisfied is the statement of Ben W. Van Hoesen, of Rotterdam, after a recent tour of investigation.

The forming of a mining bureau as a branch of its activities is announced by the Winnipeg Board of Trade. The bureau is to collect data on the mining situation in the province and will do everything possible to foster greater mineral production in Manitoba.

Tourist traffic in Canada this year is likely to constitute a new record, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Parks. No estimate has been compiled as yet but the figures for 1923, which were carefully estimated at $136,000,000, indicate the value of this traffic to the Dominion.

Up to the end of October, 1924, more than 1,000 circulating libraries were in operation in Saskatchewan, as compared with about 300 at the same time in 1923. The average number of families reading each book is 17. More than half a million volumes were circulated by these libraries during the year.

A huge wooden, tar-paper lined shell erected over the space provided for the structure and heated by thousands of feet of steam coils connected with 380-horse power boilers, which provide a summer-like atmosphere for the carrying on of construction, is an interesting and novel feature of the arrangements made to combat the difficulty of building the new wing of the Chateau Lake Louise, the Canadian Pacific Railway's famous Rocky Mountain hotel, under winter conditions. Thanks to this innovation, the wing, despite frequent drops in temperature to far below zero, is progressing excellently and the company expects it to be ready for next summer's tourist season.

Sweeping changes in the Canadian Pacific Railway's service of great benefit to the communities concerned are scheduled for January 11. They include revision of the timetable of the Vancouver Express (Toronto-Vancouver), to reach Fort William and Port Arthur between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., instead of 2 a.m., and Winnipeg at 2 a.m., instead of 2:30 p.m., as heretofore. The new times more convenient to the Twin Cities than the old and a half-day is gained for business in Winnipeg. Regina is to be reached by the same train at 11 a.m., instead of 1:20 a.m., and Moose Jaw at midnight instead of 2:45 a.m., Regina.

Regina connections being thus radically improved, while arrival at Calgary at 4 p.m. enables Edmonton to be reached that evening. Vancouver is reached at 7 p.m. instead of 9:30 p.m. as previously. The Toronto Express (Vancouver-Toronto) reaches Winnipeg more convenient, by while arrival at Toronto at 8:40 a.m. will make possible connections with early morning trains for American cities, thus saving more time. Gains on other trains between Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Chicago and Winnipeg are also scheduled. These arrangements follow the cancellation of the recently inaugurated train between Winnipeg, Montreal and Toronto, which is to come off January 10.

ADMINTON CLUB

On January 7, at 8 o'clock, a meeting of the Militia and others was held in the Armouries to organize a Badminton Club, about fifteen being present.

March enthusiasm was shown, and the name "Red Deer Military and Civil Badminton Club" was decided upon.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres.—Major R. C. Lister. President—Major R. C. Lister. Sec.—Treas.—Mr. A. W. Martin. Executive Committee: The above officers, with Mrs. Holt, Miss Doris Ryke, Messrs. W. H. Pearson, F. A. Porter and Rev. G. McComas.

It was decided to make an admission fee of one dollar to pay unavoidable expenses.

Keen interest is being shown, and the committee urge intending members to signify their intentions early, because it will not be possible to accommodate too large a number on the two courts now laid out in the Armouries.

Mr. Porter has kindly consented to act for the treasurer to receive fees, names, etc., at Porter's Pharmacy, because of the convenient location of the store.

To those who are not familiar with the game of Badminton, it might be said that it is very simple as regards rules, and is an excellent training for the co-ordination of eye and body, as well as providing one of the most delightful forms of sport.

LOST OR FOUND?

John Stone was one of those estimable people who are kind enough to bring to our houses every day at 6 a.m. and at noon a supply of milk. John also had to milk the cows in the evening, and it was his custom to seek relief from these arduous labours in the local public-house, where he could drink as much as he conveniently could.

This evening he had followed his usual practice, leaving his horse and cart outside. But one of his milk pails the pony out of the cart and led it away. Presently John came out in rather a muddled state. He was most amazed when he saw the cart without the horse.

"Am I John Stone," he muttered, or am I not? If I am John Stone I've lost a horse, if I am not John Stone I've found a cart."

HIS LUCKY NIGHT

MARQUIS PREDICTS GREAT FUTURE FOR WESTERN PRAIRIES

Forty years from now Western Canada will be one of the richest and most thickly settled districts in the world, declared the Marquis of Viana, Spain's richest man, who travelled through Alberta a short time ago, with his son-in-law, the Duke of Alba, and party. These western prairies, said the Marquis, will be tilled with railroads everywhere. Farms and ranches, which will supply the older countries of the world with food, will dot these broad expanses in a way undreamed of.

BURNS' ANNIVERSARY

H. WILLSON HEADS BOARD OF TRADE

$139.31 in the bank.

Nineteen who agreed to join the board for 1928, failed to pay the annual fees. There were 62 paying members, and there should be at least 100, not for the revenues, but that more should take an active interest in the Board.

All correspondence had been replied to promptly, and a great deal of information given and write-ups supplied for publications in Great Britain, United States and Canada.

I would respectfully submit the following recommendations for your consideration:

1. That the annual fee be reduced to $2.00, and that an active committee be appointed to solicit members. 105 members at $3.00 will produce as much revenue with much more value to the Board.

2. That some plain pamphlets be prepared containing facts and information of Red Deer and district such as is usually asked for. I would not have cuts on these and to the cost, and after all people are more interested in facts than pictures.

3. That a large number of distance signs be made up this winter and placed on roads leading to Red Deer early in the spring.

Respectfully submitted.

A. T. STEPHENSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

The report of the Secretary was received, but his recommendations were left over for consideration by the board on Monday.

The secretary was passed unanimously and an honorarium of $50.00 voted in appreciation of his work.

Election of Officers

There having been no other members nominated, the slate of officers was passed unanimously.

The slate of officers was: Hon. President, E. S. Hagg, President, H. Willson, Vice-President, T. H. Dids; Council, W. J. Botterill, R. B. Welliver, R. L. Gault, G. G. Gault, H. W. B. Lord, H. C. Mann, F. Turnbull, J. C. Brazier and C. F. Carswell.

President Willson took the chair and spoke a few words in response to the ovation he received.

It was decided to have the luncheon continued in the third week of each month, but they will be held on some day other than Monday on which the McBride Hotel is used by the Rotary Club.

W. J. Botterill raised the question of the action of the City Council with reference to Addition Heights. While everyone who spoke seemed in favor of the action of the Council, it was felt that the Board should take no action.

The meeting adjourned at 10.30.

POPLAR RIDGE

To the Editor:

We are awfully sorry for Hilda Soderman, that she should act the goat for some people at Poplar Ridge, who when interviewed personally seem to have had no objection at having a Christmas concert on Friday instead of Saturday, even if there were rumors of having a tea and social at the Soderman's. It was rather quick in taking the credit for marching the giddy couples out of the hall with the weak trustees present, for had it not been that it was only a few minutes to Sunday morning, even her weeping, and the piano would have failed to stop the dance.

By the way, we would be pleased if some well educated person would enlighten us in regard to that box of apples that Mr. M. Demas undertakes to be for the Christmas concert. Seeing we are such ignorant people we hope you will make allowance for failing to know what became of them, and we do feel certain that if certain people would mind their own business that Mr. Christian would have had a good night's peace without Miss Soderman being the goat.
